End-to-End Project Management

A RISK & PROJECT MANAGEMENT SOLUTION

ProSidian Consulting, LLC is experienced in leading business and technology based initiatives for our strategically diversified services. With a structured approach to strategic solutions deployed in a Program/Project Management framework and methodology, we help clients align technology programs with their overall business strategy.

Our Anthem Program Management Methodology is a structured approach to managing a large portfolio of initiatives and programs while focusing on execution management. This unique service allows customers to increase their project effectiveness through a robust framework for industry specific program management best practices.

PROGRAM/PROJECT MANAGEMENT BENEFITS

A comprehensive set of services aimed at the critical areas of program or project delivery including:

Vision & Direction | Planning & Execution | Measuring & Monitoring | Business Acceptance

Through our Solution Set for Program/Project Management (PMS), ProSidian provides assistance to clients in proactively identifying and managing the risk associated with significant programs and projects.

In addition, we provide the necessary recommendations and build tools to ensure program artifacts and metrics are stored in a secure and centralized area, easily accessible for repeatable use in other similar programs.

Training and continuous improvement are essential to successful program management. ProSidian Consulting has dedicated program managers and consultants at each customer's location to ensure users are trained properly to operate critical programs.

As a trusted advisor, we work on our customer's behalf to ensure the delivery solution is aligned with business requirements and expectations. ProSidian Consulting's consultants are equipped with the methods, techniques, tools, and experience needed to achieve transparency while effectively managing execution performance.

ProSidian Consulting's ultimate goal is to manage and deliver critical programs on time, within budget, and according to stakeholder expectations.

PROGRAM MANAGEMENT FRAMEWORK

The ProSidian Program Management Services (PMS) are desired by business leaders, stakeholders, partners, and vendors of leading organizations planning programs that are often related to a significant event or shift in the business and accompanied by a period of major change and/or investment. Our approach ensures that the project goals will be achieved. We analyze our customer's corporate vision to obtain their key business objectives, strategies, and initiatives, as well as review current technology programs, projects, and solutions to efficiently align with the corporate vision.

It establishes a communication plan, where formal and informal interactions within and outside the project team will increase the project focus. It also minimizes wasted effort and improves client relations and expectations. Our approach ensures that an effective project control infrastructure is in place to identify, track, and facilitate the resolution of issues.

- Capture business, industry, and solution requirements
- Structure a coordinated work plan
- Manage program budgets for improved return on investment
- Communicate and collaborate transparently
- Make informed, consensus-building decisions
- Adhere to standards of quality and performance

We help clients understand and work through the necessity of ongoing improvements and enhancements to Program Management. Customers are able to proactively track and plan for potential risks through the process, rather than discover the problem when it is too late to properly react.

As the organization matures overtime, our Program/Project Management (PMS) Solution can grow with the changing market trends to enhance the effectiveness. ProSidian Consulting's Program Management Services gives customers top-down visibility for improved decision making, which allows for early identification of trouble spots within an organization.

All of these benefits lead to increased effectiveness and a better return on investment for our customers.

ProSidian's ultimate goal is to manage and deliver critical programs on time, within budget, and according to stakeholder expectations. Our Program/Project Management Services provide a framework to ensure efficient and consistent delivery of key initiatives with an emphasis on Key Objectives, stakeholder acceptance and deliverables.

EXPERIENCE THAT ADDS VALUE

ProSidian Consultants are experienced at managing a wide variety of program types and disciplines, including:

- Technology evaluations
